This scene is inspired by a scene from "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century."

In this scene, Buck engages a group of enemy fighters with seemingly superior manoeuvring capabilities by relying on his own reflexes and skill as a pilot, rather than the fighters advanced auto-piloting system.

1. The video will begin with a panning shot of the carrier.

2. It will then cut to the four Marauder fighters approaching in loose formation to attack the carrier. They will be able to fire several shots before the carrier is able to launch their own fighters to defend themselves.

3. The fighters will launch from the carrier in single file and move to engage the Marauders in tight formation.

4. The Marauders quickly gain the upper hand and out-manoeuvre the defending fighters dispatching most of them one after another.

5. When the majority of the defending fighters have been destroyed the battle will turn in the defenders favour and they are able to destroy several of the Marauder fighters forcing them to retreat.
